Mr. Joe Sova welcomed as editor/publisher of IR

by Tom Burkline

The Independent Record welcomes a new member to our staff this week. Editor and publisher Joe Sova has taken the helm and said his emphasis is continuing to provide the outstanding local coverage and service Hot Springs County has come to expect from its newspaper of record.

"I am very excited about the opportunity to take the lead of one of the best community newspapers in Wyoming," Sova said. "The Independent Record has an outstanding staff that truly cares about the image the newspaper projects. There has always been fondness of Thermopolis, going back to my school years.

"In my years of newspaper involvement, I have always felt it was very important for the newspaper to be part of the community," he said. "The role of a local newspaper is to be a leader in the community and provide people with information about not only what has happened but also upcoming events."

A native of Wisconsin, Sova was raised in Thermopolis. Sova graduated from Manderson-Drummond High School. He began his newspaper career at the Riverton Ranger in classified and display advertising before taking the helm as the publication's sports editor, a position he held for eight years.

Sova worked at KTRZ Radio in Riverton as a news and sports director and later became the editor of the Riverton Republican Register. Continuing his illustrious career in journalism, he became the sports editor of the Wyoming Valley News Herald in Sparks, Wash., and The Observer in La Grande, Ore.

More recently, Sova has worked as the managing editor of the Missoula Independent in Missoula, Mont., and the Hungry Horse News in Columbia Falls, Mont. He has served as editor of the Casper Journal since September 2009.

"While I am the editor/publisher of the IR, a strong focus will remain on local news," Sova said. "We will not focus on national or even that much state news because this is your newspaper."

He said he and his wife Diane have been embraced by the community and look forward to meeting the rest of the people who live here. He has sisters in Thompson Falls, Mont., and Gillette, and a brother in Beek Springs.

Sova encourages community members/locals who have information that is newsworthy. "We want people to be free with information and don't hesitate to contact us," he said.

Smiths prepare for 27th annual quarter horse sale

by Tom Burkline

The WYO Quarter Horse Ranch will be holding its 27th annual May horse sale Saturday in Thermopolis.

As always, the internationally renowned sale has garnered attention throughout the United States and Canada. Last year's top seller was a gelding that was sold for $27,500.

There has been some advertising on RFD-TV, a station dedicated to rural programming, and the station has recorded a DVD of the horses up for sale.

That recording will be shown on the station and will be played during Friday's parade of geldings at the Hot Springs County Fairgrounds. The horses will be presented live and via the Internet at www.wyohorses.com 7 p.m. that evening.

"We've already had a lot of phone bids," Carole Smith said. "It looks like it's going to be a good event."

Saturday's proceedings will begin with a roping preview at 9 a.m. The sale begins at noon at the fairgrounds.

"The motel is filling up and we'll have a lot of people from out of state," Smith said. "This is the Smiths' largest sale of the year by far."

"For the 10th year, the family will also hold a September sale."

A song for all ages

by Tom Burkline

American composer, Tom Burkindine, writes a song, while teaching them the basics of song writing. "A Song for All Ages" will be released with a Christmas album that will accompany the National Christmas Tree to Washington D.C. Using the children's ideas, Ragsdale helped them write a song, while teaching them the basics of song writing.

McKee DUI crash performed

by Cindy Glasman

A mock DUI crash at Hot Springs County High School on Monday brought home the horror of what can happen if you drink and drive.

High school students as well as eighth graders stood in the rain watching the scene that was based on an actual wreck.

One student was thrown from a vehicle and pronounced dead at the scene. Students looked on as her body was covered with a body bag and left in the rain while emergency personnel tended to the living.

Volunteer firefighters extricated the other victim using the jaws of Life, taking the roof completely off the vehicle carrying the male victim.

Both drivers were given the roadside sobriety test, handcuffed and placed in police cars.

The fatality was the last off the scene, loaded onto a stretcher and placed in a hearse, from Mortimore Funeral Home.

The exercise was created by school resource officer Gary Sikors.

Counselors were on hand after the mock crash to speak with any of the students who had questions or concerns.

Federal or state offices must apply through the secretary of state while county offices are applied for through the county clerk's office.

Municipal candidates file applications through the city clerk.

There are six state offices coming open for primary election.

Those include governor, secretary of state, auditor, state treasurer, superintendent of public instruction and state representative for House District 28.

Nine positions are open in the county including two county commissioners, coroner, county attorney, sheriff, county clerk, treasurer, assessor and clerk of district court.

All of the above offices are partisan offices to be nominated by each political party at the primary.

Non-partisan offices include several municipal openings throughout the county.

Those municipal openings are mayor of Thermopolis and two town council openings, mayor of Hot Springs and two council members as well as mayor of Kelley and two council members.

With the exception of representative for House District 28, all offices are four-year terms.

Six Republicans are also needed as Republican Precinct committee members and four Democrats are needed as members of the Democratic Precinct.

Each of the above offices run for a length of two years.

Primary elections will be held Aug. 17 with the General Election scheduled for Nov. 2.
