Parent's Who Host Lose the Most Don't be a party to teenage drinking

Alcohol continues to be the most commonly reported substance used among youth in all grade levels. Our community must send a unified message that teen alcohol consumption is unacceptable. It is illegal, unsafe, and unhealthy. Alcohol is incredibly dangerous to a teen's health, especially to their developing brain. It can cause lasting damage to memory, thinking and judgment, cause social, emotional and behavioral problems that may get them in trouble at school or with the law, and puts them at risk of becoming alcohol-dependent later in life.

Parents have a significant influence in their children's decision to experiment with alcohol and other drugs. Please follow these safety tips and let's be unified in our message against underage alcohol use. We must work together to keep our kids safe, healthy and alcohol and drug free!

Tips for Parents:

- Talk to your kids about the dangers of drinking. The sooner you talk to your children about alcohol and other drugs, the greater chance you have of influencing their decisions about drinking and substance use.
- Serve as a positive role model.
- Be present and involved if your teen has a party.
- Get to know your children's friends and their parents.
- Ask other parents about their policy on alcohol, drugs and tobacco use and send clear messages about your views of keeping youth safe.
- Create and encourage alcohol-free opportunities and activities in your home so teens feel welcome.
- Make sure alcohol is not brought into your home or property by your teen's friends.
- Refuse to allow or supply alcohol to anyone under 21. As a parent, you cannot give alcohol to your teen's friends under the age of 21 under any circumstance, even in your own home, even with their parent's permission.
